| Capital Management and Dividends | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Considering the Company's Capital Management Framework and dividend policy and determining any dividends to be paid to the Company's shareholders. |

Without delegating overall responsibility, the Board may delegate the matters listed above to a committee of the Board, with the Board retaining the ultimate oversight and decision-making power in respect of the matters delegated.

The Board must convene regular meetings with such frequency as is sufficient to appropriately discharge its responsibilities.

2 ROLE AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF MANAGEMENT

The Managing Director, together with the support and assistance of other senior management, is responsible for:

- implementing the strategic objectives, instilling and reinforcing the Company's purpose and commitments to underpin its desired culture and operating within the Company's Code of Conduct, budget and risk appetite set by the Board;
- the day-to-day running of the Company provided those matters do not exceed the delegated authorities as approved by the Board from time to time; and
- providing the Board with accurate, timely and clear information to enable the Board to perform its responsibilities, including information about the financial and operational performance of the Company, its compliance with material legal and regulatory requirements and any conduct that is materially inconsistent with the Company's purpose and commitments or the Code of Conduct.

The Managing Director is also responsible for appointing and, where appropriate, removing senior executives, including the chief financial officer, the chief operating officer, general counsel, the chief development officer, the chief sustainability officer and the project director with the approval of the Board. The Company should have a written agreement with each senior executive setting out the terms of their appointment. The Managing Director is responsible for evaluating the performance of senior executives.

Senior executives and management are responsible for reporting all material matters at first instance to the Managing Director and CEO or, if the matter concerns the Managing Director and CEO, then directly to the Chairman. In addition to formal reporting structures, members of the Board are encouraged to have direct communications with senior management and other employees within the Group to facilitate the carrying out of their duties as directors.

3 ROLE AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE CHAIRMAN

The Chairman, where practicable, shall be an independent director.

If the Chairman on any occasion is conflicted or ceases to be independent, the Board will consider appointing another director who is independent to be acting Chairman or to take over the role of the Chairman.

The Chairman is responsible for leading the Board, facilitating the effective contribution of all directors, and promoting constructive and respectful relations between directors and between the Board and management. The Chairman is also responsible for setting the Board's agenda and ensuring that adequate time is available for discussion of all agenda items.

The Chairman is also responsible for arranging Board, individual director, and Board committee (where applicable) performance evaluations.

The Board will appoint an independent director to assist the Board in reviewing the performance of the Chairman and to provide a separate channel of communication for security holders (especially where those communications concern the Chairman).

4 NON-EXECUTIVE AND/OR INDEPENDENT DIRECTORS

The Board assesses whether each of the non-executive directors of the Company is independent on a regular basis (and at least annually at or around the time that the People and Culture Committee considers and recommends candidates for election or re-election to the Board). The guidelines for assessing independence of the Company's directors are set out in Annexure 1. The Board recognises the importance of the appropriate balance between independent and non-independent representation on the Board.

The independent directors may meet without other directors present, if appropriate.

The non-executive directors may meet without executive directors or other senior executives present at times scheduled from time to time. Such meetings may be facilitated by the Chairman or the senior independent director, as appropriate.

5 RESPONSIBILITIES OF DIRECTORS AND OFFICERS

Individual directors should devote the necessary time to the tasks entrusted to them. All directors should consider the number and nature of their directorships and calls on their time from other commitments.

Directors and officers of the Company should be aware of their legal obligations and duties as directors. It is the Board's policy that induction and continuous professional development programs should be available to directors where appropriate to assist them in meeting their obligations and duties.

Directors are encouraged to request information from management where they consider such information necessary to make informed decisions or to discharge their duties.

6 ACCESS TO INFORMATION AND INDEPENDENT PROFESSIONAL ADVICE

It is the Board's policy that if a director considers it necessary to obtain independent professional advice to properly discharge the responsibility of their office as a director, then, provided the director first obtains approval for incurring such expense from the Chairman, the Company will pay the reasonable expenses associated with obtaining such advice.

Where it is the Chairman who is seeking the independent professional advice, approval should be sought from the Chairman of the Audit and Risk Committee.

7 COMPANY SECRETARY

The Company Secretary's role is to support the effectiveness of the Board and its committees. Each director should be able to communicate directly with the Company Secretary and vice versa.

The responsibilities of the Company Secretary include:

- a. advising the Board and its committees on governance matters;
- b. monitoring that Board and committee charters and policies are followed;
- c. coordinating the timely completion and despatch of Board and committee papers;
- d. ensuring that the business at Board and committee meetings is accurately captured in the minutes; and
- e. helping to organise and facilitate the induction and professional development of directors.

8 REVIEW

The Board will review this charter at least on an annual basis and update it as required.

ANNEXURE 1

Guidelines for assessing the independence of directors

An independent director is a director who is free of any interest, position, association or relationship that might influence, or reasonably be perceived to influence, in a material respect his or her capacity to bring an independent judgment to bear on issues before the Board and to act in the best interests of the Company and its security holders generally.

It is the Board's policy that in determining a director's independence, the Board considers the factors relevant to assessing the independence of a director as set out in Box 2.3 of the ASX Corporate Governance Council's Corporate Governance Principles and Recommendations (4th edition) as follows:

Examples of interests, positions, associations and relationships that might cause doubts about the independence of a director include if the director:

- a) is, or has been, employed in an executive capacity by the Company or any of its child entities and there has not been a period of at least three years between ceasing such employment and serving on the Board;
- b) receives options or performance rights or participates in an employee incentive scheme of the entity where those incentives are performance-based;
- c) is, or has been within the last three years in a material business relationship (e.g. as a supplier, professional advisor, consultant or customer) with the Company or any of its child entities, or an officer of, or otherwise associated with, someone with such a relationship;
- d) is, represents, or is or has been within the last three years an officer or employee of, or professional advisor to, a substantial security holder;
- e) has close personal ties with any person who falls within any of the categories described above; or
- f) has been a director of the Company for such a period that his or her independence from management and substantial holders may have been compromised.

In each case, the materiality of the interest, position, association or relationship needs to be assessed to determine whether it might interfere, or might reasonably be seen to interfere, with the director's capacity to bring an independent judgment to bear on issues before the Board and to act in the best interests of the Company and its security holders generally.
